"Shipwreck" Kelly, star Big Blue sprinter who was out of the Vanderbilt meet due to a leg infection, in all probability will be unable to participate in the Georgia Tech meet in Atlanta Saturday as the leg still is in bad shape. The remainder of the squad, following a brief workout yesterday afternoon, left early this morning for the Georgia metropolis.

In the trials Wednesday afternoon the Wildcats showed that they have reached their mid-season form as none of the men extended himself, and all turned in good time. Ball, Hubbe and Hieber ran the 100-yard dash and Ball's time of 10.1 was the best he has turned in this week. Hubbe or Hieber will be the other entrant in the 100 if Kelly is unable to run. In the 220, Ball ran the route in 22.9, but Coach Bernie Shively is uncertain of his other entrant in this event. Hieber may accompany the team as his injury is much better.

O'Bryant and Baker are the millers the coach will take on the long trek, and if they do as well in the meet as they have done in practice they should have little difficulty in taking first and second. Captain O'Bryant is much improved over his early season form, when he was beaten consistently by Howard Baker, but Jake breezed to a victory over his teammate in the trials Wednesday, doing the mile in 4:45.

Despite the loss of the two-mile race to Pickett of Vanderbilt, Hocker and Baker, the Cat two-milers, ran the long grind in the best time they have done this season. Baker was clocked in 10:7 and Hocker in 10:23. Hocker and Baker are in much better condition than they were a week ago and should run a good race against the Techmen.

Very little is known concerning the strength of the Yellow Jacket track squad, but they had some fast sprinters last year and a pole vaulter who bettered 12 feet several times. The 'Cats' chances for a victory are not so good as the absence of Kelly necessitates a shake-up in the other events to find men to take the flak of the place.

The quarter-mile in the meet will be Milliken and Carter. Ball or Mahan, all who are timed in 54.2 in the trials. The relay team will be the same as last week, Ball, Carter, Mahan, and Milliken. Capt. "Jake" O'Bryant's 54.8 in the quarter Tuesday seemed good enough to clinch him a place on the relay team, but the coach has decided to keep the same team and to let Jake continue running the mile and the half-mile.

Mahan and O'Bryant will be the contestants for the Big Blue in the 880. Mahan's victory in the half at Nashville was the ray of sunshine that pierced an otherwise dark day. He and Captain O'Bryant should give good accounts of themselves in this event Saturday.

GEOLOGY MAJORS
PLAN FIELD TRIPTwo Week Summer School
Excursion Planned by Geology
Department for Majors and Graduates

CREDIT WILL BE GIVEN

Approximately 10 major and graduate students of the geology department will take the annual two-week summer trip given by that department beginning June 2. The trip is held for the purpose of allowing the students to study matters relating to rock structures and natural resources of that portion of the country. Dr. A. O. MacFarland is in charge, while Professors Young and Meacham will go along to assist.

This trip is listed in the catalogue of courses offered during summer school, and each student taking the trip receives two credits. Leaving Lexington the itinerary leads to Cumberland gap, where a study of geologic conditions will be made. From there the group journeys to North Carolina, stopping at Cranberry to make a study of the magnetic iron ore found there and of its relation to the surrounding rock beds. Then the party turns toward the state of Virginia, stopping at Damascus to study a lava flow, and at Saltville to view a gypsum deposit. From Saltville the route leads up the New River Valley, and turning east, crosses the Blue Ridge, a study of titanium minerals being made in the latter vicinity.

In Charlottesville the members of the party will pause long enough to visit the soapstone quarries, and then they will travel toward the coast, passing through Richmond and Yorktown. From there they will go to Washington where they plan to visit the Smithsonian institute and the National museum.

The return trip will include a short stay at Luray Caverns, Virginia, and from there the route leads through Huntington and White Sulphur Spring, West Virginia, then back to the university.

The conveyance to be used will be a truck of the department, tents and other materials being carried extra, as the party plans to spend the entire time out of doors.

Freshman Tennis Team Is Ranked
By Coach Klein

Play-offs will be held next week for the Freshman tennis team so that at present the rankings are tentative. However Roger Klein, appointed coach of the freshman team by Prof. H. H. Downing, has announced his first five who will meet the University High school team, Monday, April 25.

There are 17 candidates, and they are ranked as follows: John St. John, number one; Milton Rnsh, number two; Marion Brown, number three; James Curtis, number four; and Alfred Miller, number five. The coaches have insufficient data on the remaining candidates and they will probably be switched around by Downing or Klein. At present they are ranked as follows: Harold Williams, Ralph Winfrey, William King, Rueben Buchman, Shelby Kinkead, Franklin Zug, Robert Welch, Winsor Craven, Gordon Norris Dunlap Elliot, Kenneth Alley, and Gabbard.

In the varsity play-offs during the past week Smith beat Howard for fifth place, and Bishop beat Vost for sixth place. The next match for the varsity team is as yet unsettled.

Professor Michael Rostovtsov of Yale University, investigated the origin of beer and now claims that France and not Germany invented the beverage.

O. D. K. Pledges 16 Men
At April ConvocationLexington City Manager Is Chief Speaker at Student Assembly

Sixteen men were pledged to Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity, as a feature of the April convocation sponsored by that organization at the third hour Wednesday morning in Memorial hall. Paul C. Morton, city manager of Lexington, was the chief speaker, and Pres. Frank L. McVey presided.

The new O. D. K. pledges are John Buskie, Lexington, Phi Sigma Kappa; Harry Emmerick, Henderson, Phi Sigma Kappa; I. C. Evans, Paris; Lambda Chi Alpha; John Ewing, Prospect, Phi Sigma Alpha; Malcolm Foster, Nicholasville, Phi Sigma Alpha; Horace Helm, Henderson, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Thornton Helm, Lexington, Sigma Chi; Lawrence Herron, Covington, Delta Tau Delta; John Kane, Schenectady, N. Y., Alpha Sigma Phi; William Luther, Lexington, Lambda Chi Alpha; Charles Maxson, Lexington, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; George Skinner, Lexington, Delta Tau Delta; Harry Smith, Paducah, Triangle; George Stewart, Cynthiana, Alpha Sigma Phi, and C. O. Wallace, Hollis, Long Island, N. Y., Kappa Sigma. Mr. Morton was made an honorary member.

Mr. Morton, speaking on "Leadership" said that he thought that leadership in all professions should originate in the university. For proper preparation for leadership the value of an education should be realized at all times during the college career. Athletics are perhaps as important as the academic activities, but "for every class I cut I paid dearly for it in my business," he said. "I had to study long hours at night to fit myself or stay at the bottom of my profession." When opportunity does come for advancement the deficiencies will come out. Mr. Morton maintained.

As principals of leadership Mr. Morton named honesty, hard work, loyalty, deep study and clear thinking.

Giving a short history of city managing, Mr. Morton said that it began in 1908 in Galveston, Texas, and now is used in 486 cities in the United States. In it there is a great opportunity for college men, according to Mr. Morton, and any students at the university who are interested are welcome to see him at his offices in the Lexington city building.

President McVey explained the position of the honorary fraternity. "The honor society may be an infernal nuisance," he said. There are three kinds, the one with a high ideal, leading merit; the kind with mixed points of view, seeking political advantage, and the kind that under the guise of an honorary society is a make-believe and seeks to procure personal advantage. Omicron Delta Kappa has in its history gone up and down, he said. However, it does try to select leaders on a basis of merit, and was established to help solve the problems of the university.

President McVey hopes that the time will come when a fraternity will not have to do "this or that" to prove its merit. The greatest part of the difficulty of campus politics would be cured if the social fraternities would not take the point of view that they are political organizations. They should bring together a congenial group who by

Sir Herbert B. Ames
Speaks at Law CollegeWorld Court Discussed By Eminent Canadian
Statesman

The instructions that Elihu Root gave United States delegates sent to the international conference in 1907 are almost identical to the principles upon which the World Court is now based, declared Sir Herbert B. Ames, eminent Canadian statesman, at Law convocation yesterday morning in the Law building.

The reason that the 1907 plans fell through was because it could not be decided how the judges should be elected, he said. Nothing further was done along this line until after the world war when the 14th article of the covenant of the League of Nations required that plans for an international tribunal be made.

A full history of the planning, organization, and functioning of the world court was given by Sir Herbert. He said that at the time of the first meeting of the 15 judges of the court in 1922 he happened to be at the Hague on business and that he had the honor of calling them together for their initial meeting.

In closing Sir Herbert discussed the reasons that had kept the United States from becoming a member of the World Court. He said that their membership hinged upon a very narrow line and that the matter was entirely in the hands of the United States as the foreign powers had done all that they could do possibly.

Final Rehearsals
Of Stroller Play
Show Progress"Good News" Will Open at Woodland Next Wednesday Night

As "Good News" enters the last week of rehearsals directors of the production announced themselves as highly satisfied with the progress shown by the cast. Dance routine has been perfected according to the officials and everything is in readiness for the curtain call at 8:15 o'clock next Wednesday evening at the Woodland auditorium.

"The cast, if called upon, could present a finished performance right now," Director Adcock told The Kernel reporter when interviewed yesterday. "Both leads in the play, Ralph Kercheval and Elizabeth Jones, are taking the roles with the skill of professionals, and the audience will see the best show ever staged by the local dramatic society," he concluded.

A feature in the way of stage setting is being prepared by the stage crew under the direction of Tick Evans. A new drop is being made and the scenes surrounding a typical college campus are depicted on the curtain. It will be a duplicate of the drop used by the road company when it played in Cincinnati and Louisville last year.

Louise Johnson, who leads the feature dance, "The Varsity Drag," has completed her rehearsals for the show and has told Director Adcock that she will be ready when the curtain is raised. The chorus under the direction of the dance director Georgiana Weedon is holding daily practices in order to keep the routine in the minds of the choruses. The best among the university dancers are included in the ensemble and the usual difficulties experienced in producing an amateur chorus have been met and ironed out successfully.

Bliss Warren, who has charge of the costuming committee also has reported that her work is practically completed and the entire cast has been dressed in an appropriate style. The east might well be used in a fashion show as the committee endeavoring to bring the dress of the players up to the minute as far as college style is concerned.

Tickets for the performance are being distributed in the fraternity, and sorority houses on the campus. Bus Yeager is chairman of the business office and has reported the advance sale of tickets far above expectations.

Augusta Roberts, Y. W. C. A. secretary of the university, has been selected by the International Student committee at New York, to represent the United States as one of the twelve who are selected annually for the student pilgrimage to Europe.

The student pilgrimage has been an annual project of student Y. W. C. A.'s in this country since 1923. The group is made up of not more than twelve, including undergraduates, recent graduates, and student Y. W. C. A. secretaries. The group is selected with the view of making it a truly representative body of American women students. The members are chosen from all sections of the country.

Miss Roberts will leave with four other representatives of American women students, in order to meet with the general committee of the World's Student Christian Federation in Holland. To be a delegate to this meeting involves membership in the World's Committee for two years. The purpose of the meeting will be to make a study and an analysis of student life today and from this formulate a policy and a program for the World's Student Christian Federation for the immediate future.

Co-ed Band's Playing

The last twilight concert, at 7:15 on the evening of May 28, will have as an added feature the girls' band which will play with the men's band during the last half of the concert. They also will play the accompaniment to the May Day dances.

The university was the first university or college in the United States to have a girls' band. It was started five years ago under the leadership of Professor Sulzer. The majority of its members had no previous training before they came to the university. The purpose of the band is to give girls the experience necessary for musical careers. There is now only one similar band in America, and it is at Oberlin University, Oberlin, Ohio.

Music; Dance Will Be
From 9 to 1

Anna Mae Lewis will be queen of the 1932 Junior Prom which will be held between the hours of 9 p. m. and 1 a. m. tonight in the Alumni gymnasium.

Miss Lewis received 146 of the total number of 221 votes cast by men of the junior class in the election conducted yesterday in the Administration building. She was victor over four other candidates.

Tonight, to the strains of music produced by Michael Hauer's Chicago orchestra, university juniors will make their last friendly gesture to the departing seniors and will entertain them as guests of honor at the dance. Later in the semester, and as the last official act of their college days, the seniors will return the compliment at the senior ball. The juniors will be guests of the seniors.

Although the Junior Prom at Kentucky is a comparatively recent innovation, the fame of the annual hop has spread over Kentucky and the middle west. Former students, from the forks of the Big Sandy to the bluffs of the Mississippi, are returning to Lexington for what might be termed the unofficial homecoming. Only the homecoming football game and the June commencement rival the prom in attracting alumni. Probably no other dance in the South is as well known as the Junior Prom at Kentucky.

The ordinarily drab alumni gym will become a riot of color when the Keller Floral company, which has contracted to decorate the building, finishes its work. Spring flowers will be used, according to the plan proposed. University coeds are expected to add their bit to the alluring scene.

Besides the usual widely heralded feature, the crowning of the queen and the grand march that is scheduled to take place between the fourth and fifth no-break, the pledging of new honoraries will be held. Thirteen of the outstanding men in the junior class will be pledged to Lamp and Cross, honorary fraternity for outstanding seniors. Lances, junior class honoraries, likewise have elected 13 of the best men in the sophomore class and they too, will be extended invitation, to affiliate with the fraternity.

The dance, which begins at 9 o'clock will continue until 1 o'clock. Richard Neiser is the chairman of the committee in charge, and Malcolm Foster is president of the class.

Honoraries Will Pledge
Lamp and Cross, senior men's honorary organization, and Lances, honorary organization for juniors, will hold pledging exercises at the Junior Prom. Basis of selection in both organizations is scholarship and achievement in campus activities.

at Annual Showing of American Art at Cincinnati

Prof. Edward Rannells recently returned from Cincinnati where he served on the jury of selection for the 39th annual exhibit of American art to be held during the month of May in the Queen City. Professor Rannells' selection as a member of the jury was considered in recognition of his ability and judgement in the art field.

Other members of the jury were Kenneth Miller, New York, city artist, and Henry Clark of the Cleveland Art school. Mr. Miller was chairman of the jury while other art exhibits may award larger prizes the Cincinnati exhibit is considered one of the most comprehensive shows in the country.

According to Professor Rannells the exhibit will contain all types of contemporary American art. Several hundred entries were received from artists all over the country. Material was received from as far east as Massachusetts and from as far west as California. Of the submitted works 120 were selected and will be shown at the Queen City museum during the exhibition.

AND NOW, CONGRESS?

Scarcely recovered from the worries engendered by the legislative eccentricities evinced last month by the Kentucky general assembly in its endeavors to balance the state's biennial budget even at the expense of educational institutions, the university is this week confronted with a similar crisis through proposed federal legislation.

Within a few days Congress is expected to consider the withholding from the national budget during the next fiscal year all federal monies for vocational educational purposes. Again, our national lawmakers are to act upon a proposed ten per cent. tax to be levied on the general admission to athletic events; such legislation will naturally affect all revenues derived from sporting events. In a word, Congress has been asked not only to further diminish the already depleted income of the university's instructional departments, but also to check the revenues of the one department which has heretofore been unique in operating at a profit.

Kentucky is primarily an agrarian state. The vocational training offered its citizens is invaluable to them in their later occupations. The elimination of federal appropriations for vocational training finally would result detrimentally for the citizens of the state.

Undoubtedly the federal legislature must discover some means of stabilizing the country's budget. And naturally enough, in their efforts to accomplish this end the individual members of Congress find themselves in a disagreeably compromising situation. It has been humorously suggested that if Congress could tax someone who did not vote, the budget soon would be balanced. The budget must be balanced by the interested and voting factions throughout the country disagree as to who should bear the burden. Nevertheless—aside from any prejudiced or selfish interest that might move the university to shy from such a burden—in view of the existing conditions brought about by the action of the state legislature, the subsequent cut in faculty salaries, and the threat of curtailed activities, the university authorities, the student body, and the people of Kentucky should ery out against additional effort to fast the economic burden upon public educational institutions.

LEADERSHIP

The season is on for the selection by various honorary leadership organizations of those who are adjudged to have been most outstanding for their qualities of leadership during the past year.

Pledges to Omicron Delta Kappa, men's leadership fraternity, and to Phi Beta Kappa organization for those who lead in scholarship, have already been chosen and those for Mortar Board women's leadership organization will be announced on May day. Along with these selections have come the election of women to lead the Women's Student Government association for the coming year. All of the students thus chosen have been signally honored, taken as they were from such a large student body as that of the university. Their selection brings to the mind of the average student the question, "Just what does one have to do to be chosen? What is it that these have done to distinguish themselves from their fellows?"

There are many factors which enter into the attainment of a reputation for leadership and outstanding ability. One of the most important of these factors is that of faithful attention to the little things. The Phi Beta Kappa student is not one who has gone heedlessly through the scholastic world, skipping a quiz here, flunking one there, saying, "Well, what does one class matter anyway?" The officers of W. S. G. A. were not chosen by lot, nor by luck; they were chosen because throughout their membership in the organization they had done well each task that was given them, considering no task too small to be done well. The same principle holds good, as a rule, in the leadership organization, and it is those students who have been willing to do many seemingly thankless, seemingly profitless tasks over a long period of time who make up the majority of those chosen.

Some will disagree with this philosophy, some will declare that politics is the only thing that ever governs student activity. In some cases, perhaps, this contention is correct, but they are in the minority. Even admitting that some are chosen for political reasons only, the recognition given those who really do deserve reward should more than counterbalance that which is undeserved. The greatest reward to him thus chosen is, after all, the knowledge within himself of tasks well done and honor deserved. Such a reward is but an empty one for him who knows within himself that it is not deserved.

Jest Among Us

"Twelve are candidates for May Queen"—headline. Well, may the best man win!

Add smiles: Proud as a freshman with a fraternity pin.

Now that all the liberals, socialists, and communists have finished writing letters to this here sheet, the editor will have to start writing editorials again.

Speaking of politics, how about some of you mugs voting for 'Al Smith next year.

Headline—"Terp ball tossers beaten by Virginia as slump continues." They're even blaming ball games on the depression.

Society item: "Debutantes are now smoking 'small' pipes during intermissions. "Dern these sufferagets anyway.

Though poets rave in measured verse
And weather man is shouting,
Our eyes we wink and lips we purse—
That spring is came we're doubting.

But take this tip, you slug-a-bed,
It's clinched that spring's aborning—
A fly, abuzzing 'round my head,
Awoke me just this morn'ing.

According to the dean of a mid-western college, love, whiskey, and faculty intelligence is the reason why collegians flunk out. How about cigarettes, deacon?

Latest fashion notes are that men will wear brown and gray this summer. They will—if they wore 'em last summer.

MOTHER O' MINE
When your hair has turned to silver
And your face is wrinkled too,
I shall only love you dearer
Just as all sons ought to do.

Yet your hair is black as ebony
And your skin as fair as mine,
I now love you as none other,
You dearest mother o' mine

O! when I retire at evening
And my thoughts above do soar,
I ask His tender blessings
On the mother that I adore.

And His answer is so soothing
That I close my eyes in sleep
As He says, "I've only lent her She'll return for Me to keep."

DOTES AND ANTI-DOTES

By CRAIG VAN DRUTEN

Now I am mad. Yeh, I did NOT make O. D. K. Of all those 16 oysters, I didn't make it. And me a prominent sophomore too.

Fellowes from the dean of women's office via sorority row. (Add S. A. E. scholarship standing crack of Tuesday. Kadie's May Demand Re-count. Kadie's are reported official winners of scholarship trophy for last semester. . . . Kadie's officially recognized as rightful claimants. Developments . . . discovery that Kadie scholarship scribe forgot to include several very fine standings on dean's list. Oh, well.

Again, predictions. I may have pulled a banana peel in the early foisting of the May Queen's crown onto the sunshine brow of Kadie Virginia Young—Alfagams Ruth "An You Can Bet Your Shirt She's Running." Well, she may be the one to walk away with the queenie act. At any rate it'll be mighty interesting. Other cutes doped to cool their heels in worshipful attendance are Zeta Lois Neal, Alfazac Betty Watkins, Coyuguga Mary Elizabeth Bots, and Independent Opal Hubbs.

Everything should move sweetly at the coronation exercises. As usual the capette elects will be there shining with happiness and unpowdered noses. Last year the event passed unmarred by contra tempest other than a mild rainfall and the over abundance of Lexington kiddles whose antics and numbers likened the green to a nursery ward.

But the ne plus ultra of effect was achieved two years ago. Alfagams Queenie Baucom was about to adjust the regal symbol upon her head. As an obsequious husk stilled the assemblage there shrilled across the green the vibrant hall of an applauding donkey.

Strollers "Good News" is going to be good. Doubt first engendered by the change of the show house from a downtown theater to the Woodland auditorium has been removed—the hastily, and overly-familiar back-drawn will not be used. A bright, new one not yellow, you nubi will serve in its stead.

The Freedom of the Dress question again bobs up at the university. Strollers were fairly successful in their bid for a revuc but the Plisgs fizzled. Original plans for a Hobo Hop were cancelled when authorities squeaked at the costuming idea. The dance will be another informal. Ain't us girls got no freedom?

Co-eds bore 'em
With decorum

The Kahpas again blush. It was Sunday in the Triangle house. Jimmie Scudder lounging in bathrobe and slippers was reading the papers—the funny papers. The air was warm; Jimmie doffed bathrobe and slippers. Shortly he was roused by an insistent tapping on his shoulder and an added, "May I present." Jimmie scudded upstairs. The Kahpas had come to lunch.

Early this week the race horse Coral Beach, running at the Kentucky association track, pranced across the tape in the place position to pay some odd $490 to a $2 ticket. Tuesday night two other racing thoroughbreds disapproved. They were finally located on the university campus. Evidently seeking an education to increase their earning power.

Pat O'Brien and Mae Clarke, who made their talking picture debuts in "The Front Page," are now starred in "The Final Edition," the current attraction at the Kentucky theater.

The picture is similar to the other newspaper stories, that have been shown from time to time, but thanks to the direction of Howard Higgin, the climaxes are not overdone.

Mae Clarke, a reporter on a newspaper, refuses the marriage proposal of the editor and is promptly fired because of her decision. She starts out, without the back of the paper, to get a story of inside information about the murder of the police commissioner. She makes good in getting her story which is so big that

NOMINEES FOR MAY QUEEN

Who Will Be Our Royal Half - Wit?

These Candidates Have Been Nominated On Their Honor, Dignity, Good Looks, And Ability To Punt When In Doubt.

WINNER OF CONTEST
WILL RECEIVE $100,000.000
IN OLD GERMAN MARKS

GUSSIE GUGGLES

LIZZIE BLOWFLY

SADIE SPLASHBOARD

The first candidate on the docket is Miss Gussie Guggles, a gurgling good gal from Gulliver's Gulch, Ga. Although Gussie was suffering from an attack of old chronic lockjaw when this photo was snapped, it is evident that the spasmodic expression of passion on her pan will have an enticing influence on the voters.

The next candidate is Lizzie Blowfly. Lizzie hails from Possum Trot, and is the youngest of her parents' 27 children. She is an adroit creature, and we do not adulare her sense of dignity when we say that she is fond of limberger, drop-the-handkerchief, and takes a delight in collecting old seed warts.

Last, but not least, is our old friend Miss Sadie Splashboard. Sadie is the water queen, you know, who dived off the Woolworth building on to a damp cloth last summer. When Sadie was a young girl she drank a quart of elephant milk by mistake. And now, since she weighs 700 pounds in her stocking feet, we think that she is fully capable of holding down the office.

We do solemnly swear that these persons have been nominated by the masses, and are duly qualified candidates for the dignified office of the "All-American May Queen." And we, the sponsors of this nationwide-election, do further state that the runner-up in said election shall be dubbed "America's Sweetheart." The votes shall be impartially counted by two blind men and an imbecile member of our staff.

I wanna vote forfor May Queen.

the paper takes her back, but she soon resigns to become the wife of the editor.

Alias the Doctor
Richard Barthelmess will be seen in "Alias the Doctor," which opens at the Strand theater, Saturday. Playing in support of Barthelmess is an unusually strong cast headed by Marian Marsh.

The theme evolves about the character of two boys, foster brothers—one of whom cares only for the frivolous things of life, while the other accepts all the duties and responsibilities, to carry out the obligations placed on him, even into the sacrifice of love and honor.

While heavily dramatic, there is a lighter vein in the story, the happy-go-lucky medical student days, which is highly entertaining; this acts as a foil to set off the more serious moments of the drama. Barthelmess, rendering a performance that long will be remembered, makes the most of these scenes.

Tarzan, the Ape Man
"Tarzan, the Ape Man," the screen version of Edgar Rice Burroughs' widely read jungle tale, will be shown at the Ben Ali theater beginning Sunday.

The story, laid in the Lake Alberta region of Africa, contains all the thrills and breath taking adventures that originally were woven into the plot. Most of the animal action scenes shown in the picture were taken in Africa and dummies are used only twice to avoid the risk of injury to the actors.

Johnny Weissmuller, world's champion swimmer, is cast in the title role, as the Ape Man. The supporting cast includes such notables as Neil Hamilton, Maureen O'Sullivan, and C. Aubrey Smith.

Novel Cognomens For Co-eds Found

Somebody is always finding a new name for Co-eds, but at Ohio State University they have the honor of suggesting the best yet. Each co-ed is either a "yin" or a "yang."

These two terms are borrowed from the Chinese by dress designers. If a young lady is sophisticated and is forceful and dominating in any situation, she is decidedly a Yang. This is further enhanced by being a brunette and exotic.

If the co-eds is native and youthful and finds her greatest charm in extreme femininity, she is a Yin. The Yangs dominate the conversation, while the Yins listen.

This information was brought out at a home economics open house at Ohio State where students in designing classes furnished sketches of gowns for both types.

For the Yangs there were long, clinging, slinky bits of covering, but a multiplicity of ruffles and flounces were designed for the Yins.

For colors and materials, the classes in textiles exhibited brilliant hues and huge, uncontrolled prints for the Yangs, while pastels and tiny, dainty prints were shown for the Yins.

Dueling Not Passe Asserts Traveler

The ancient practice of dueling is not regulated to ages past, according to Capt. Jean Maurice, who is now visiting the Colorado State Teachers' School for the purpose of organizing a class in fencing.

In telling of the sport in his native country, France, Captain Maurice said: "Many women fight duels; I have seen instances when women challenged men. On these occasions chivalrous young men bystanders would clamor to defend her but non, non, they have to settle the quarrels themselves."

"You will be surprised when I tell you that even in New York, I have known of several quarrels which were settled by dueling."

Questioned as to the popularity of fencing for the sake of sport, Captain Maurice maintained that fencing, with its glamour of romance of bygone days of chivalry, has made its way once more to the front line of beautiful sports. Extreme grace of deportment, poise and mind, confidence, self-reliance and rapidity of decision are some of the attainments which which fencing rewards its devotees.

Women have gone yet further in their enthusiasm for the sport. Its beautiful intricacies, its accuracy and finesse have strongly appealed to their love of the uncommon.

CAMPUS TALKIE TO BE TAKEN

A sound moving picture which will show a cross section of student life and activity at the University of Illinois is being planned by the alumni association according to the Purdue Exponent. The picture will show various views of the campus and the work accomplished at the university.

The trip holds out an opportunity to collect fossils, minerals, and rocks, take photographs, and hike. The first of the field trips will start at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon from the Science building, and the second at the same time and place Sunday afternoon. Transportation will be furnished, and the cost will be not more than 25 cents per person.

Stanford Students Knock 'Dirty nosing'

Men students at Stanford university are raising a war cry against co-eds "dirty nosing" to grizzled professors in order to get their grades.

Among the accusations hurled at the fairer sex were flirting with their instructors, inviting them to social functions, and practicing other feminine wiles for the low down purpose of raising their grades.

"Co-eds get their grades the same way Cleopatra got hers," said the men students in an editorial.

NO FISHING FROM HORSES

It is not only a good trick but illegal to catch fish while sitting astride a horse, cow or other animal in Idaho, the bureau of fisheries discovered in a national survey of fish and game laws.

Pennsylvania believes in a holiday for the finny tribe so anglers must stay away from streams on Sunday. In Maryland, the residents of the state can fish on Sunday, but outsiders must not.

West Virginia does not allow aliens to cast a line in state waters and Oklahoma prohibits the use of artificial bait with more than 15 hooks.

Women students study more, sleep more, and get more recreation than men students, a recent study conducted at the University of Wisconsin reveals. Men write more letters, read more and give up twice as much time to work outside activities. The women get an average of eight hours rest, while the typical man manages to put in only seven and a half. Women have an edge on men in church attendance although the average is low for both.

Thirty students have enrolled in the annual pie-eating contest at New York University. Contestants will be forced to dip their heads into the pies with their hands bound behind their backs.

By Ralph E. Johnson

Birkell Lee Pribble, freshman football coach, is no longer the proud owner of a pack of fox hounds consisting of one top-cared dog named Robert. It is a long story and developments have made it complicated, but all of its intricacies are well known to "Daddy" Boles, Brownie Leach, and members of the Athletic department who delight in repeating the sad tale to the dismay of Birkell Lee.

The story starts way back in Pendleton county where Robert was born and reared. All his life Robert dwelt within the confines of aforesaid county. But last week his master, "Old Scout" Pribble decided he was too good a dog to lay around idle, and so Robert was placed in the back seat of a car and they were off for Woodburn county and Sam Woolridge's fox hunt.

Robert was unaccustomed to automobiles, gas fumes and rough roads and presently became car sick. Regurgitation set in promptly and copiously, which necessitated some swearing and gasoline before the effects were removed from the upholstery. After trouble enough the hound pack and Pribble arrived at the seat of the preparation for the fox hunt.

All of the trouble up until this time would have been forgotten if only Robert had shown up well in the hunt. Robert was already well known for his master often had bragged on his pack.

But Robert wouldn't join in with the pack in the hunt. He just rolled over and went to sleep. Pribble's ire aroused, he called sharply, "Bob." Robert ups and drags himself to the nearest fodder pile and curls there contented enough. (Had Robert joined the hounds and done well Pribble would have called him "Sir Robert.")

Legend has it that Robert didn't move until the fox ran right over him, and then he moved to allow the baying pack to pass him by without disturbing his slumbers.

Saturday Pribble returned with his dog, evidently satisfied that the first attempt was an off day for Robert. This time Robert did better. He started off and the last time he was seen he was trailing the pack by 50 feet.

Pribble suspects kidnappers. "Daddy" Boles and a few others suggested that the fox has old Robert on the run and won't quit chasing him. Various and sundry hypotheses have been advanced as to his whereabouts and how come, but late Thursday night nothing definite has come of it.

An interesting event has been scheduled to take place at the same time the high school track meet comes to Stoll field. Ralph Kercheval and Harry Noble will participate in a unique dual—Kercheval will punt a football against the javelin throw of Harry Noble.

Kercheval will kick three times with the wind and three times against it; Noble will do the same with a javelin. This should be interesting for Noble is easily the outstanding javelin man in this section of the country, having thrown it 198 feet while in high school. Kercheval, at the same time, is one of the nation's outstanding punters (some say the finest). So whether the dual is exciting or not matters little; both participants are outstanding in their events, and close-ups of the form will suffice.

Thursday afternoon, after an all day passive resistance attempt, we finally broke down before an array of Tri-Delta and were led upstairs to the Kentuckian office where we promised to vote. Upon presenting ourselves to the official we found that we had already voted once! It made no difference really, but is there nothing absolutely o. k. in a campus election?

Pitkin club sponsored a hay ride Tuesday night and O.D.K. pledge George Skinner, several Kernellites and others were aboard. In the course of the evening two couples meandered 'neath a moon and cross field and in the course of the ramble they chanced upon a small stream.

Perhaps it was the intoxication of the moon or the giddiness that one suffers from on a spring night, but at any rate one cooed suggestively. In she went up to her knees. The boy friend followed suit. After a moments hesitation, a KD waded, in followed by her Sigma Beta Xi.

Another cold snap would be best for them, says me!

Our own idea of the most mirth-provoking laugh on the campus is the hearty chuckle of SAE Bill Humber.

Intramural

By DELMAR ADAMS

After several weeks of inactivity there is again action on the intramural front. The latest standings of the various fraternities released by Hack last week, but just now breaking into print reveals the fact that the Sigma Chi with 441 points are in the van. The S. A. E.'s trail the leaders by 86 points, followed by the Kappa Alpha Psi, Phi Sigma, and the Phi Kappa Phi.

Competition in the spring sports is under way with practically all the first rounds of golf twosomes, and two ball foursomes, tennis singles and doubles and horse-shoes singles and doubles being completed.

Due to a dearth of publicity many tennis players were unaware of the spring tennis competition so C. W. Hackensmith the intramural director has issued the following statement:

"All those men who were unaware of the tennis tourney may sign up for an independent elimination contest, the winner to play in the tennis singles the winner in the other bracket; all entries must be in by April 26 at 6 p. m. The entry fee of 25 cents must be paid by that time.

"The intramural track meet will be held this year on May 13th, and for the first time no freshman track men will be allowed to compete as they are in good shape and it is not a fair advantage to the other contestants.

"Play in the inter-fraternity diamond-ball league has gotten under way and the 20 teams in the league will have seen action before this week is over."

The fraternity standings, counting points made up until the beginning of spring sports:

men, although the usual number pieced each spring to Lamp and Cross is 10. Reason given for the increase in number of pledges for this year is that there were so many outstanding junior men.

Pledging ceremony will be held about 11 o'clock and during the evening there will be a special no-break in honor of members of the two organizations.

Each year Lamp and Cross presents a silver loving cup to the outstanding freshman boy. The winner of the trophy for this year will be announced at the time of pledging. The basis for selection is scholarship and work in campus activities.

Those in charge of exercises are Johnny Noonam and Ben Lettoy. Initiation for Lamp and Cross will be held within the next two weeks. Members of Lamp and Cross are William Hubble, president; John Noonam, vice-president; Robert Porter, secretary-treasurer; Robert Tucker, Chester Jolly, Duke Johnston, Robert Reynolds, Glenn Weisman, and Ben Leroy.

such association would bet the advantages of the life but would be loyal first to the university. They can be a great help if they can maintain an unprejudiced ideal and can recognize true merit. Slipping away from ideals of merit is no help to the university. Fraternities should maintain a high ethical point of view.

Dr. Abner Kelly, department of English, played an organ selection and the invocation and benediction were pronounced by Rev. Howard Morgan, Maxwell Presbyterian church. Cadet ushers were E. T. Evans, S. W. Jones, W. L. Hushk, C. R. Kastner, J. W. Kinkaid, and H. R. Lair.

Emmet Milward, president of the first circle on the campus, was present for the pledging exercises and was introduced to the audience. Members of the university faculty who are members of the organization are Prof. Frank L. McVey, Dean W. D. Funkhouser, Dean P. P. Boyd, Dean W. S. Taylor, W. E. Freeman, assistant dean, L. J. Horlacher, assistant dean, Dean C. R. Melcher, Bernie Shively, assistant coach, Dr. Paul K. Walp.

Officers of the active chapter are: Prof. R. D. McIntyre, faculty advisor; Horace Miner, president; Ben LeRoy, vice-president, and Ben Stapleton, secretary and treasurer. Other members of the circle are Hugh Adcock, Duke Johnston, Frank Stone, Ben Stapleton, John Epps, Robert Tucker, Kenneth Andrews.

A poll recently taken at the University of Chicago revealed an overwhelmingly large opposition against compulsory physical education. A petition asking abolition of such was sent to the university senate.

'Cat Thinsies Trek South to Georgia and will prevent him from running the hurdles in the coming meet. Shively has had Ralph Kercheval out practicing on the low hurdles and he is only a trifle slower than Emmerick, whose time of 27.1 is the best he has turned in recently. Emmerick ran the 120-yard high hurdles in .17 with Kercheval only a step behind. Emmerick's knee, which bothered him last week is well and he should do his usual good work in the hurdles against Tech.

Johnny Mams should win the shot put Saturday, as he is fully as good with the iron ball as any man in the South. He has achieved 43 feet, two inches in practice and should do better in the Georgia sunshine. Andrews and Epps will throw the discus and should have fair success in that event. "Sealey" Roberts has been having good luck in his high jumping this week, getting around six feet, consistently. Sealey's highest jump of his career was at Nashville, when he reached six feet, one inch only to have the opposing jumper tie with him for a first place. Coach Shively is doubtful if he will take Porter with the squad as there is little chance of either of the pole vaulters beating the Tech pole vaulter.

Kercheval will broadjump, and the other man will be decided by the coach on arrival in the Georgia city. It will probably be Porter. Kercheval's 20 feet or thereabouts hardly will gain him a first place but he may take a second as Tech has no jumpers of outstanding ability. Kercheval and probably Johnnie Heber will throw the javelin and Kercheval's 154 feet or better very likely will take a first place for the 'Cats.

Among those who left for the Georgia Tech meet were Coach Shively, Trainer Frank Mann, Ball, Hubble, Milliken, Mahan, Carter, Captain O'Bryant Baker, Hocker, Kercheval Emmerick, Mains, Epps, Heber, Andrews Porter and Kelly.
